Three stone carvings from Pallava era identified by archaeologists in Gingee

BAGALAVAN PERIER B @ Villupuram

Archaeologists have identified three stone carvings near Gingee, of Murugan (left), Thavai (centre) & Kotravai (right)| EXPRESS

ARCHAEOLOGICAL researchers have identified three stone carvings from the seventh century near Gingee. Two among them, Kotravai and Thavai, were found to be distinct from previously discovered Kotravai carving in Tamil Nadu. According to the researchers, Raj Paneerselvam and Vedal Vijayan, they located these carvings in Thalavanur village near Gingee based on information provided by local sources.

Upon information, the researchers initially found the carving of Thavai, measuring 4ft in height and 3ft in width, behind Panjapandavar Hill in the village. Raj described the carving, "A heavy Jadabaram (crown) rests above her head, with thick lips on her round face, and Magara Kundalam (earrings) adorning both ears. She is depicted in a sitting position, with her right hand falling on her lap and her feet resting on a lotus, a posture rarely seen in previously identified Thavai carvings in Tamil Nadu."

The carving also depicted her wearing jewellery on her neck, wrist, and shoulders, with her dress covering the lower part of her body while leaving the upper portion exposed. Additionally, Raj pointed out, "To her right and left, her son Maandhan and daughter Maandhi are depicted in a sitting posture. Her weapon, a broom, is seen near Maandhan. A part of the slab stone is damaged, right above Maandhi. Lotus buds are visible on both sides of her shoulders. This style situates the carving's origin in the seventh century during the Pallava era."

Some metres away from this site, the researchers found two more stone carvings, one of Murugan and the other of Kotravai, also from the same period. The Kotravai carving measures 5ft in height and 3ft in width, featuring eight hands, a heavy Karanda Magudam (crown), and a topknot hairdo. The face and lips of Kotravai are similar to Thavai, her ears adorned with Bathra Kundalam (earrings). She wears a necklace, Tholvalai (shoulder ornament), Kaivalai (bangles), and a Katchai (cloth) covering her chest.

Raj added, "In her many right hands, she holds a Prayog Chakra (wheel), sword, and a Kabalam (severed human head), with the bottom most right hand resting on her hip. To her left, she holds a Sangu (conch), bow, shield, and the bottom most hand is placed on her hip. Both resting hands displays Ooru Mudra. Moreover, she stands on the head of a buffalo. This Kotravai carving with a Kabalam is the second of its kind among the 272 Kotravai carvings I have documented across Tamil Nadu."

The Murugan carving featured the deity in a standing posture on a lotus flower, holding a lotus bud in one hand and a Vel (spear) in the other. Raj noted that this carving also dated back to the same Pallava period. The researchers connected the style of these carvings to the period associated with the Kudavarai monument and the inscriptions of Mahendravarman The First previously found in the village.

Raj added, "These 1,400-year-old stone carvings have been placed in the open and occasionally worshipped by the villagers, who were unaware of their age and historical significance so far."

PM Modi must recall TN guv if he has faith in democracy: Ex-UT CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Puducherry

FORMER Puducherry chief minister and senior Congress leader V Narayanasamy has called for the recall of Tamil Nadu governor RN Ravi, accusing him of abusing his power to undermine the elected DMK government led by MK Stalin. He emphasised that state governors have no individual powers, they should accept and approve decisions made by the cabinet. Narayanasamy pointed out the governor shelving 12 bills sent by Tamil Nadu Government goes against India's constitution and democratic tradition.

The former chief minister likened governor Ravi's actions to those of former Puducherry lieutenant governor Kiran Bedi, suggesting they are aimed at weakening the elected government. Narayanasamy called on Prime Minister Modi to recall governor Ravi if he has faith in democracy.

Narayanasamy further accused the central BJP government, led by Prime Minister Modi, of attempting to tarnish the reputation of opposition leaders for political gain. He cited instances of 'false' cases being filed and alleged threats from the income tax department, CBI, and enforcement directorate. The Congress leader also criticised the lack of action against Madhya Pradesh chief minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan, who was implicated in the Vyapam scam. During Congress rule there were 750 cases against opposition leaders, but during Prime Minister Modi's rule, more than 5,900 cases have been filed, of which investigation has reached completion only in six cases, Narayanasamy added.

'Speaker Selvam is violating constitutional provisions'

Former chief minister Narayanasamy charged Assembly speaker R Selvam of acting in violation of constitutional provisions and dishonouring his position by interfering in government affairs and attending party events. His work is confined to the Assembly and he has no authority to call the chief secretary and discuss administrative matters, Narayanasamy noted.

Furthermore, the Congress leader criticised the speaker for taking part in BJP party meetings as well as the RSS procession, when his position demands he be neutral, adding that Selvam is not fit to hold the post. After hearing legal opinions, we would be moving the court on the matter, said Narayanasamy.

Fake Canadian officials swindle over ₹1.18 crore from 36 people

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Puducherry

IN another recent incident of online fraud in Puducherry, a group impersonating as Canadian embassy officials has swindled 36 youngsters of a total sum of ₹1.18 crores, according to cyber crime police.

Initially, 62-year-old Gurunathan, a licensed agent with a decade of experience in facilitating the migration of workers outside the country, received an email claiming to be from a government office in Canada, offering 50 positions as office helpers with a monthly income of ₹2.5 lakh.

The fraudsters managed to dupe Gurunathan by posing as embassy representatives and maintained contact with him using an email address identical to the one used by the actual Canadian embassy. They even engaging in WhatsApp video calls with him. Subsequently, Gurunathan shared the supposed job offer with numerous individuals in Puducherry and Tamil Nadu who had been seeking employment opportunities abroad.

The aspiring individuals, eager to seize at the opportunity, contacted the scammers by way of email, video calls, and phone calls. Approximately 36 victims from various locations, including Nagercoil (17), Puducherry (4), Chennai (8), and other places across Tamil Nadu, exchanged their Indian currency for dollars and forwarded the money to the scammers. The fraudsters further strung them along by making demands relating to immigration and medical certificates, and other documents.

In all, the scammers managed to extort more than ₹1.18 crore from their victims, who had became suspicious following a two-month-long silence from the supposed Canadian officials. Subsequently, they reported the incident to Puducherry cyber crime police station. A case has been registered, and inspectors Karthikeyan and Keerthi are actively investigating the matter.

Six girls from V'puram bag bronze at 37th Nat'l Games

Villupuram collector Palani felicitated the team on Tuesday | EXPRESS

SIX talented Mallakhamb players, all girls, have achieved a remarkable feat by bagging the bronze medal for Tamil Nadu at the 37th National Games held in Goa from October 26-28.

The entire team, coached by G Adhityan, hails from Villupuram.

Mallakhamb is a traditional Indian sport that combines gymnastics and yoga on a vertical wooden pole, and requires immense strength, agility, and focus.

The team comprised of V Sangeetha (16), B Pavithra (14), B Yazhini (19), P Bindhushree (8), K Bhoomika (9), and V Madhivathani (12). The girls had been training at Adhityan's coaching centre for the past five years, sources said.

District collector C Palani on Tuesday felicitated the team at the collectorate.
